

SHOOT HIM

By: Jacob

One late spring afternoon, two teen age kids went hunting. They were headed to their hunting spot in a tall tree. One kid named Longfang was carrying a bow. The other kid's name was Jim and he was carrying a 22 rifle. They were out in the woods for a half hour and heard nothing.

About one hour later they heard a loud cracking sound of red and orange leaves in a distance. Longfang looked right, Jim looked left, they both saw nothing. Longfang looked behind and Jim looked in front. Longfang said, "Nothing behind us." Jim was in shock because he saw the big black bear.

Longfang turned around and there it was a 5 foot 3 inch black bear. Longfang thought to himself he must be at least 430 pounds. The bear was just walking around. Then Longfang shot his bow but missed by like 3 feet. That startled the bear. Then Longfang told Jim to shoot. Jim said "But we don't have a tag for that." "Shoot him now!" Longfang shouted. Jim didn't move. Longfang took the controller and shot the bear. The bear dropped like a sack of rotten potatoes. Jim said, "Why did you do that? He was not after us." Longfang said, "I know I thought it would be funny." Then their mom said to put the darn game up and go outside to get some fresh air. It's nice out for a change go have fun.
